

The WCB's list of accredited mental health providers

The following WCB accredited mental health providers have agreed that the WCB may publish their contact information externally so that workers or employers may reach out to them regarding treatment for mental health issues arising from a work injury.

The mental health providers on this accredited list may or may not be able to accept a new patient at any given time, depending on their current capacity.

However, where a WCB claim has been registered, even if not yet adjudicated, the WCB can arrange an appointment promptly, eliminating the need for workers or employers to call multiple treatment offices. The WCB may also arrange for a mental health program, which may involve the following list of mental health providers. This program includes counselling, team-based therapy, exercise therapy, exposure therapy and return-to-work supports. These WCB referrals may prevent moving to a different provider if a more comprehensive program is needed.

The WCB encourages early reporting of work injury claims so the adjudication process can begin and the WCB can help with medical appointments such as the above.
