Earnings verification annual review

Section 69 of The Workers' Compensation Act, 2013 allows for a yearly review of a worker's earnings, with an increase that is based on the average Consumer Price Index (CPI) for Regina and Saskatoon.

To complete an annual review, you must provide the following documents to the WCB office, per the WCB's policy Earnings Verification (POL 13/2021):

- Signed Verification of Income Statement (REQ).
- Completed and most recent income tax return.
- Saskatchewan Tax form (SK428) or provincial TD1 Personal Tax Credits Return form from your home province if you are not living in Saskatchewan.
- Most recent notice of assessment (NOA).

Frequently asked questions

Why do you need my income tax information?

As per the WCB's policy Earnings Verification (POL 13/2021), the WCB will review a customer's information received from the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) to verify:

- earnings
- tax exemption status
- if you are in receipt of Canada Disability Pension (CDP) benefits

Which income tax year do I send in?

The WCB requires your most recent income tax return. For example, if your annual review is taking place in 2022, the WCB would require your 2021 income tax return. For annual reviews that occur from January through April, it is not expected you would have your income tax filed for the previous year, as the deadline for CRA is April 30. It is, however, important to submit your completed income tax return as soon as it becomes available to avoid any delays in benefits.

I did not have a WCB claim last year. Do I need to submit my income tax return?

No, the WCB does not require an income tax for the first annual review, as it will be from prior to the work injury. The first annual review will be completed with just a signed REQ form.

Nothing has changed from last year. Do I still need to submit all of the information?

Yes, it is required as per the WCB's policy Earnings Verification (POL 13/2021).

Do I need to send in my entire return?

No. The WCB requires the following information from your tax return:

- Employment income (lines 10100 and 10400).
- Self-employment income (lines 13500 to 14300).
- Canada Pension Plan (CPP) or the Quebec Pension Plan (QPP) benefits and disability benefits (lines 11410 and 11400).
- Federal non-refundable tax credits (lines 30000, 30300 and 30400).
- Saskatchewan Tax form SK428.

What is a notice of assessment (NOA) and how do I get one?

A NOA is a summary of your tax return that the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) sends you every year after you file your tax return. It is proof that the return was submitted to the CRA. The WCB will not accept a handwritten income tax return without a NOA.

There are two ways you can get your NOA. You can receive it by mail, where the CRA mails it to you via the mailing address on your tax return. You can also access it through your registered online CRA account.

Example NOA

Notice details Social insurance number 000 000 000 Tax year 2016

What is a T4A(P) slip and why do you need it?

The T4A(P) is a statement of Canada Pension Plan (CPP) Benefits if, during the year, you received benefits from either the CPP or the Quebec Pension Plan. This slip shows the amount and type of the benefit(s) you received. There are four different types of benefits under the CPP, including post-retirement benefit, disability pension, post-retirement disability benefit, survivor's pension, children's benefit and death benefit.

As per the WCB's policy Offset of Canada or Quebec Pension Plan Disability Benefits (POL 22/2016), CDP will be deducted at a rate of 50 per cent of the monthly benefit one year from the first earnings loss (FEL) date or the date of qualification, whichever comes first. For a surviving spouse, survivor's pension will be offset on the first anniversary of the spousal benefits.

Example T4A(P) slip

What is the SK428 form and why do you need it?

This is the Saskatchewan Tax provincial form completed with your income tax return. This form verifies your TD1 Personal Tax Credits Return exemption status. The WCB needs to verify your TD1 exemption status to calculate the probable deduction for income tax, which is used to determine your benefit entitlement.
